

MORABITO ART VILLA

BALI - CANGGU

Morabito Art Villa is nothing like just another villa.

A charming and quiet hotel on the wilder coast line, away, yet so very close to the happening heart of the island. It was left to desolation and abandonment until the current owner came to its rescue.

Back to grandeur is the least that can be said. Morabito Art Villa is pure luxury.

Past the elegant yet simple entrance one is lead to the center of the property where reside the large living bale. Over two hundred square meters this grand open space is mindfully divided into two distinct area. To the right the dinning with a long table comfortably sitting 20 and the nurturing presence of a wood fire oven where bread is baked every morning for breakfast. To the lounge and bar fitted with a well equipped kitchen, perfect to entertain at one's own will or relax in the inviting grand sofa, well positioned to enjoy a movie on the retractable home theatre screen.

The Bale further opens onto a large terrace overlooking the main pool and lusciously manicured grounds, host to a series of pavilions and structures, each unique and different in style, yet setting an atmosphere of simple and true elegance.

The owner's passion for old stones and all that relates to them, is well represented throughout the grounds by collections and single pieces originating from Europe, the middle east, Africa, South America, India and of course the Indonesian archipelago.

Two master suite embrace the grounds on either side.

The first one to the right is at garden level and revealed through an open terrace where awaits the allegoric presence of a large swinging daybed. Past the large wooden door, one discover an extremely large bedrooms with comfortable sofas and in its center an inviting iron wood bed from which one can enjoy full view of the outside grounds with the beach as background.

The attached bathroom is conceived as a corridor of water features where one can walk himself through the different steps of a ritualistic bath, with passage under the various shower heads lining the ceiling, to reach the pleasurable peace of a little private outdoor haven, adjacent to the terrace where sits the large carved stone bath.

The second suite is divided in two level. Downstair open from a small terrace, a few steps up from the garden, onto leading to a casual receiving area.

Upstairs reveals a high ceiling, peaceful and spacious bedroom, with reading nook and study, opening onto a terrace holding magnificent view of the grounds below ; a profuse mix of green and water play. The exquisitely pristine pool, its lounging bales and the infinite horizon view onto the Indian Ocean.

Attached is the most peculiar and inviting bathroom. Two moods. To the left, a sleek and contemporary shower lounge, with an amusing array of varied waterfall. To the right, a lovely and private terraced bath with magical views to the surroundings and a surprising plasma screen unveiling itself at sundown to enjoy a little news from the outside world if need be.

The suite also hosts another two smaller bedrooms with twin beds, sharing an ensuite shower room, perfect to accommodate children and their caregivers.
